The partnership consists of 32 partners from the EU and Norway comprising regions, municipalities, scientific institutions and the national co-ordinators for WHO-Healthy Cities. Eight Baltic Sea Region nations - Lithuania, Latvia, Estonia, Poland, Finland, Sweden, Denmark and Norway and the national WHO Healthy Cities Network in Norway and Denmark - are represented in the partnership.

The aim is to create a geographical circle around BSR, encompassing the range of shared experiences in the north, the east, the south and the west, so as to maximise the potential for fruitful exchanges of knowledge, while also creating the potential for more regional clusters of linked partners within an overall polycentric pattern.
